Boards And Bucks

When an Upper Peninsula County Board of Supervisors votes unanimously on an issue it shows an impressive solidarity. There shouldn't be much question about public interest being served when there's such agreement, but the Delta County Board of Supervisors, excercise of unanimity recently on an issue can be questioned.

The supervisors all asked the Michigan Conservation Commission not to order an antlerless deer hunt in Delta County when the commission announced that it was meeting to act on a recommendation of the Conservation Department's Game Division that an antlerless deer hunt be held across the whole Upper Peninsula.

The board is serving its constituents well in supporting the most strongly expressed belief of hunters about what's best for the deer herd, perhaps, but in so' doing it is asking the state's official custodians of the deer herd to act against their convictions of what's best for the deer herd.

This controversial deer management issue is a part example of the problems brought by the knowledge explosion. There is full sincerity and conviction on both sides of the discussion, but both can't be right.

If the supervisors were to defend their position in a national forum of game management experts they would lose the debate. Thirty years ago they would have won with defense of the one buck law.

Any supervisor anywhere should respect the recent letter on the subject by Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, president of the Wildlife Management Institute. The success of the Institute depends upon the amount of game it can provide in America. It wants to provide the maximum number of deer for sportsmen. The supervisors, similarly, believe they are providing for the maximum number of deer when they oppose shooting of antlerless deer. They prefer lay opinion to expert opinion.

Dr. Gabrielson says in part:

"The resolution of the supervisors represents a a backward step in the management of an important resource of the U.P.

"The only way to maintain a healthy and vigorous deer herd is to crop the annual surplus by regulated hunting, and this means a portion of the antlerless deer as well as bucks. In my estimation, Michigan's deer herd has reached a point where a substantial harvest of antlerless deer is necessary.

"It is an unfortunate fact that the same well-intended philosophy behind the resolution (of the sup- and we're going to stick to that ervisors) has killed, and wasted, more deer nationally isde. than all of the hunters combined . . .

"Where Game Departments have been able to conduct regular antierless deer hunts or any-deer hunts, the sportsmen have been able to take more deer and in most instances as many bucks as they did before their buck laws were rescinded. Invariably the quality of the individual animals, buck and does, is much higher than before.

"Antlerless or any-deer hunts do not materially affect the total number of deer available in the fall. only the number that enters the dangerous period of late winter. This is because healthy deer produce more _Columbia University psy- Since neither God nor man can its the best policy".

This is a lesson in biology taught in all the public schools of Michigan, but it is hard to sell it to hunters.

A principal function of the new center, Mrs. Cain explained, will be to assist adult married women who wish to continuwe education along with home responsibilities. Individual counseling offered by the center will help such women find the programs and courses within the University which are of most use to them. Counselors will also offer guidance on ways of combining campus study with home obligations.

Working with other units of the University, the center will help women to arrange parttime academic programs and to pick up campus studies which may have been interrupted for a few or many years.

"Many able adult women are returning to our college campuses or hoping to do so," Mrs. Cain commented. "It is not a surprising trend because wom-

NEW RIFLE FOR THE GROUND FORCES?—Although the Army's M-14 rifle (top) has been used by the troops for only four years, the Army is searching for a newer, lighter, more powerful weapon. High on its list of possible replacements is the AR-15 (bottom) manufactured by Colt's Patent Firearms Manufacturing Co. The AR-15, now in very limited use in Viet Nam, fires a high-velocity .223 caliber slug, not much larger than a .22 caliber bullet. The M-14 uses the larger .30 caliber slug. Tests indicate that the AR-15 is remarkably accurate and lethal. Also under test are the AR-18, Stoner 63 and the Special Purpose Individual Weapon (which shoots darts and rifle grenades).

LANSING - Dr. Howard A. Tanner, 41, head of the fish research division of the Colorado Game and Fish Department, becomes chief of the Michigan Department of Conservation's fish section Sept. 1. He succeeds Dr. James T. McFadden who left July 1 to join the faculty of British Columbia University. M. J. De-Boer has been filling the post as acting chief. Dr. Tanner is recognized nationally as an authority on fish management. In announcing his appointment, Conservation Director Ralph A. Mac-Mullan remarked: "This is the culmination of a nation-wide search to find a man capable of carrying on our bold, new program in fish management. I am confident Dr. Tanner will give us the leadership necessary to place Michigan up front among the country's great fish-

Gen. deGaulle Visits 'Front' On Anniversary

SAINT-RAPHAEL, France (AP) - On a balmy day 20 years ago today, three battlehardened American divisions and a Free French force landed on the Riviera to open a second front in the liberation of France.

The landings in Southern France have been overshadowed by the massive Allied landing at Normandy two months before. But for Gen. Charles de Gaulle, then commander of the Free French fighters and now France's president, this was the invasion in which the French "began participating in the common victory.' De Gaulle's troops were kept
